DATE: 31.03.2021

TIME 11:00 AM TO 12:30PM

Department of Pathology, Annapoorana Medical College and Hospitals , Salem conducted a Continuing Medical Education on 31.03.2021 ( Wednesday) in the topic “THERAPEUTIC USES OF BLOOD COMPONENTS” between 11:00 am to 12:30pm. The CME was attended by 260 delegates which included undergraduates, post graduates, faculty and lab technicians from AMCH , Government Mohan Kumaramangalam Medical College, Vinayaka Missions Kirupanandha Variyar Medical College and Hospitals . The chair person Dr.P.M.Subramaniam gave a very nice powerpoint presentation about the history of blood transfusion. The guest speaker was Dr. R. Pitchai MD (Immunohematology and Transfusion medicine) Medical officer, Blood centre, AMCH. The session lasted for one and half hours. The speaker gave very clear details about the collection, separation and storage of blood components and also about apheresis. He also gave details about the facilities and instruments available in the AMCH blood centre. He also insisted on the proper usage of components reducing its wastage. The co - chairperson Dr.S.Ramasamy MD Professor and HOD of medicine, AMCH raised many questions about the practical difficulties in getting rare blood groups .The speaker gave a solution for the same. Many other questions were raised mainly by the clinicians which was cleared very well by the speaker in the interactive session. Feedback was obtained from the delegates..
